

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

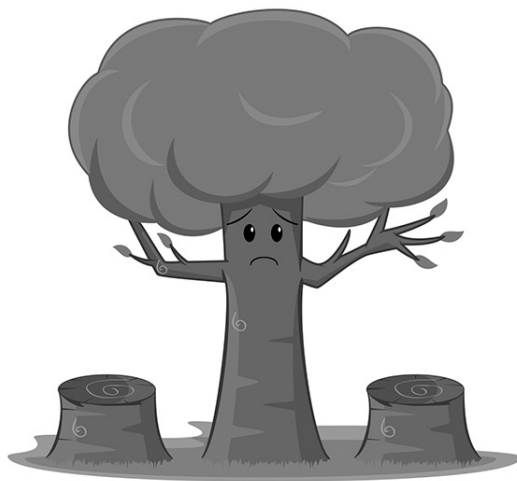

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

We need to get involved if we want to save our environment!

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe events in the news in a range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What kind of awareness programs are there in your community?
- Which environmental problem is the most dangerous for the environment right now? Why?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about feelings and impressions.
- I can exchange opinions.
- I can talk about cause and effect and hypothetical situations.

Let's Explore!

Sally finds out more about our environment! What is lurking on the horizon?

* When something "lurks", it is unpleasant and threatening.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally:

Tell us about your involvement as a conservationist, Jennifer.

Jennifer:

After I read all those articles online, I knew I needed to get involved. If I didn't act now, maybe my children would never be able to see the rainforest. Teachers like myself have a responsibility to the next generation. If we teach others about our environment, we will have a chance to save our planet. That's why many conservation organizations were founded by scientists and academics.

Sally:

Were you shocked by what you saw once you got there?

Jennifer:

On my first trip, I was taken on a boat ride along the Amazon River for a week. Before beginning our journey down the river, we were shown several sites in the Peruvian Amazon. To our dismay, we saw how many precious resources were taken away from the rainforest every day. We were also unhappy to discover that endangered animals were sold for their skin and fur. I thought: if we continued on this path, the wildlife would soon go extinct.

Sally:

Are you satisfied with your role as an activist?

Jennifer:

There is much more that needs to be done before it's too late. We will soon find out if our organization gets its point across effectively. If it doesn't, more animals and plants will face extinction.

Let's Practice!

Who were the first conservation organizations founded by?

Instructions: Read the sentences. Write the missing words. Use the Past Simple passive form of the following verbs: found, take, guide, sell, kill. Use capital letters where necessary.

1. That's why many conservation organizations _____ by scientists and academics.
2. On my first trip, I _____ on a boat ride along the Amazon River for a week.
3. We _____ through various parts of the jungle.
4. We were also unhappy to discover that endangered animals _____ for their skin and fur.
5. Some endangered animals _____ to make medicine.

Let's Practice!

It's important to talk about conservation.

Instructions: Organize the mystery sentence. Rewrite them correctly below. Read the sentences aloud. Compare yourself to a partner. Correct each other.

1. . / to / rainforest / never / didn't / maybe / my / able / If / see / be / I / now, / children / would / the / act

2. have / to / planet / about / others / our / chance / . / teach / we / environment, / will / a / we / If / save / our

3. and / We / will / polluting / stop / if / we / save / fish / populations / . / overfishing

Extension Activity

Write a newspaper story.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Find a newspaper story online and underline all the uses of the simple past passive voice.
- Write an unusual newspaper headline.
Example: Dog taught to drive
- Write a newspaper story using the simple past passive tense to go with the headline.
- Write 10 to 12 sentences.
- Share your story with a partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I talk about feelings and impressions.

☐ ☐

I exchange opinions.

☐ ☐

I talk about cause and effect and hypothetical situations.

☐ ☐

I identify news stories for discussion.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- conservationist (noun): someone who advocates the protection of the environment
e.g. Tell us about your involvement as a conservationist, Jennifer.
- academic (noun): a teacher or scholar
e.g. Many conservation organizations were founded by scientists and academics.
- shocked (adjective): extremely surprised and upset
e.g. Were you shocked by what you saw once you got there?
- dismay (noun): consternation and distress
e.g. To our dismay, we saw how many trees were cut down every day.
- resource (noun): material or natural substance that can be collected for profit
e.g. To our dismay, we saw how many precious resources were taken away from the rainforest every day.
- fur (noun): the short, soft hair of certain animals
e.g. We were also unhappy to discover that endangered animals were sold for their skin and fur.
- extinction (noun): the process of a species becoming extinct
e.g. If we don't do anything, more animals and plants will face extinction.

Learning Points

Simple Past Passive

When you are writing a news article or giving an interview, you can include the Simple Past Passive to describe something done by someone at sometime in the past.

In a regular sentence structure, you use Subject + verb + object.

Example:

Scientists and academics founded many conservation organizations.

In the Simple Past Passive form, you use the structure:

Object + was / were + past participle + by Subject

Example:

Many conservation organizations were founded by scientists and academics.

You can use the Simple Past Passive to ask questions:

Was / Were* + Object + past participle + by Subject

Example:

Were you shocked by what you saw once you got there?

Learning Points

Conditional Sentences with If Clause

You use the first conditional with If clauses to talk about real possibilities in the future.

You use the second conditional to talk about unreal or imaginary (hypothetical) situations in the future.

You use the First Conditional to say it's possible that you will do or not do something. In that condition, something else may, will or will not happen.

The parts of the sentence are divided into two clauses: the If clause and the Condition clause.

You use the Second Conditional to talk about hypothetical situations. It's not certain that it's possible to fulfill the condition.

Example:

If I had a million dollars, I would buy a car.

Do you have a million dollars? No.

Is it possible to suddenly get a million dollars? Not really.

What would you do if you had a million dollars? Buy a car.

You use the Simple Past verb + *would

First Conditional: 1st Clause	First Conditional: 2nd Clause	Meaning
If we teach others about our environment,	we will have a chance to save our planet.	It's possible that we teach others about our environment. In this condition, we will have a chance to save our planet.
Second Conditional: If ... + Simple Past	Second Conditional: would + base verb	Result
If we continued on this path,	the wildlife would soon go extinct.	It is not certain that we will continue on this path. What would happen if it did? The wildlife would go extinct.

